

'Youth has the power to change a system' federal elections

2013

Politician, movie producer, techie, Indo Australian Ganesh Loke (Gary) takes multi-tasking to a whole new level. It's easier, he says, when you believe in what you do

Shveeta Singh
SYDNEY

Ganesh Loke aka Gary is a multifaceted personality and has many feathers in his cap. Being an innovative business entrepreneur from Parramatta, he runs his own IT development and marketing company along with a film production unit in Sydney.

Gary came to Australia in 1999 as a student, did his graduation in IT from Charles Sturt University and took up a job in an IT training and marketing industry. He then worked in IT and as a web designer for a few years.

After doing another degree in education from Charles Sturt University, he joined NSW Department of Education & Training. Gary also worked as a lecturer in a few colleges before starting his IT consultancy and training business.

